

"In reality opposites are one; art shows this." —ELI SIEGEL

This Great, Diverse City: How Should We See It?

Opening Thurs.
March 31, 6-8 pm

Perry HALL Adam ISLER

Harvey SPEARS Amy DIENES

David M. GROSSMAN Len BERNSTEIN

Ralph TOPOROFF Dale LAURIN John STERN

LeRoy HENDERSON Vincent DIPIETRO Mary FAGAN

Michelle RICK Juan BERNAL Louis DIENES Arnold PEREY

Dan McCLUNG Dennis CLERKIN Allan MICHAEL David BERNSTEIN

CONTEMPORARY PHOTOGRAPHS

TERRAIN GALLERY/AESTHETIC REALISM FOUNDATION 141 GREENE STREET SOHO NYC

This Great, Diverse City: How Should We See It?

CONTEMPORARY PHOTOGRAPHS

Opening Thursday, March 31, 6-8 pm

thru September, 2011

The Terrain Gallery is proud to show the work of twenty photographers whose images capture the rich diversity of people, cultures, neighborhoods, architecture, and feelings in New York. Through images in black and white and color, and comment by the photographers and others, this grand, historic city is shown as having "a oneness of quiet and tumult, profundities and mischief," as Eli Siegel, founder of Aesthetic Realism, said in his talk What of New York and Poetry? "You can use a point to get to the whole world, and New York," he said, "is a good place to begin to be fair to reality as such."

TERRAIN GALLERY 141 GREENE ST NYC 10012

TerrainGallery.org Gallery Hours: Wed-Fri 12-5; Sat 12-4 212.777.4490